

Dennis Corporation contributes to the University of South Carolina’s joint Chi Epsilon and ASCE Chapters. (February 27, 2007)

Dan Dennis, President of Dennis Corporation, recently presented a PowerPoint Presentation to the University of South Carolina’s Chi Epsilon and American Society of Civil Engineers Chapters. A full service engineering firm located in Columbia, SC, Dennis Corporation has been a long time contributor to endeavors supporting the education of future engineers. In his February 27th presentation, Mr. Dennis outlined Dennis Corporation’s services, current projects, and career and internship opportunities for the future engineers who attended this meeting. At the end of the meeting, Mr. Dennis participated in an interactive question and answer session with the students. Ashley Smith, President of the USC Chi Epsilon Chapter, stated, “It was great that Mr. Dennis shared some of his experiences and gave us a better insight into what to expect when we enter the career world.”

Mr. Dan Dennis is pictured at left, presenting to engineering students at USC